Kekionga Junior High School

2929 Engle Road

Ft. Wayne, Indiana 46809

Partially-completed, the new school stood awaiting its first students. Pupils studied hard while carpenters noisily hammered away to conclude the construction of Kekionga Junior High School.

On November 27, 1961, Kekionga officially became a member of the Fort Wayne Community Schools.

Now, fifteen years later, our school is still fulfilling our educational needs (without the help of the builders!)

The first principal of our school, Mr. Hugh Rice, was very helpful to his Kekionga family and promoted the welfare of the new and beautiful junior high school.

Our present administrator, Mr. Robert Stebbe, plays an important part in the lives of the student body. He encourages the pupils to reach their full potentials while comprising rules and regulations by which both faculty and students may benefit.

Our yearbook staff has actually changed very little over the past fifteen years. What? Take a closer look. There're still fewer guys than girls and they all continue to pose for pictures (loving every moment!)! As for changes of appearances, well, that's a completely different story!!

STAFF

The staff of Kekionga, in unified effort, shall always work to maintain an organized and challenging school program.

Mr. Robert Stebbe, the head of our school, has his hands full. He has to do many difficult jobs. His main problem is keeping teachers, students, and parents happy. He tries, and sometimes it doesn't always work, but he does his best and that's what counts.

Mr. Thomas Duff, the assistant principal of our school, holds an important position. His duties range from keeping the student body mannerly to keeping the teachers in line. He does many other things for the school too, such as correcting school problems. Mr. Duff just generally helps out.

"No, spaghetti is not made for toupees ... never fill out a blue slip on a "blue" Monday ... today is ITED day, in other words D-Day for "I Tell Everything" (what an educational experience!) ... no, I can't transfer you out of that class ... all right, what did you do this time? ... when you go to Elmhurst you'll have to (we know, we know, we'll do the same thing we do here—work!) ... who started this fight? ... are you in here again? ... what's this I hear about your ... no, don't tell me ... yes, this is all in a day's work (and for Kekionga's counselors, it sure is!).

Tap-tap-tappety-tap; brring ... "I'm sorry, this is no longer a working number," "May I have a pass?" "My locker,—it don't work." "Can I sleep in the Clinic today?" "Someone stole my ..." "May I have change?" So if you are ever passing by the office and hear these noises, don't worry, it's just an ordinary day for the secretaries!

to form a better school

Mrs. Robbins and Mrs. Hessert, our librarians, introduced a new program to the school this year called THEM, Take Home Educational Materials. This program is so that students may learn on their own. The librarians are also very helpful in assisting students in selecting books.

Burnt cookies ..... lumpy potatoes ..... cold vegetable .... greasy chicken .... melted ice cream bars .... warm milk .... overcooked hamburgers ... .... too spicy tamales ... doughy biscuits ..... broken taco shells. We sure are thankful to our great cooks for not giving us lunches like these.

Flush flood! Report to John 6 on the double! Bring mops and plungers! Be prepared for anything! The custodians clean up any problem such as this. We sure are thankful to our custodial staff for helping keep Kekionga beautiful!

A C A D E M I C S

Students shall attend classes five days a week, every week, for nine months out of the year, except in the case of vacations, absences, fires, building collapses, tornados, tidal waves, mutinies, bomb threats . . .

Have you ever been attacked by an accent or rebuked by a rolling r? This is a daily occurance during Spanish 8 and 9. This year the classes have studied various areas of the subjects, such as pronunciation, cultural aspects, and written communication. It is one class in which you can talk (if you converse in Spanish!)

Je ne peux pas dire ca. (I can't say that). Je ne comprends pas. (I don't know). Je vais n'apprendre jamais ca. (I will never learn).

These are familiar phrases heard in Miss Bell's French classes. This year, through the use of films, filmstrips, tapes, and magazines, the French students were helped to gain a cultural awareness of the French people and their country.

unfortunately forever as

Hardworking, skillful, and imaginative freshman students form the 1975-76 publications class. Besides doing the required English, these students write the Arrowhead (Kekionga's newspaper) and have collaborated to create this biennial album. Hard work, huh? It sure is! Besides working a full (?) hour everyday, they put in overtime!

a major menace in the eyes

"How many times do I have to tell you, do pages 197 and 198. Pi is 3.14, not 4.13 ... Tracy, go get me a glass of water ... Then all you have to do is play poker ... Divide that by 2, not 3 ... You always remember what you do to one side, you do to the other side ... Is 17 a prime number? ... Fourteen over 28 reduces to  $\frac{1}{2}$  ... How many times does 19 go into 657? ... Tracy, get me another glass of water!

Between paper airplanes, spitwads, and bubble gum under the desks, this is usually what is happening in the math classes.

of skeptical scholars

Kekionga's math classes are not just work, work, work all day. Mr. Edward's fourth and fifth period general math classes, along with Mr. Edward's supervision, built a wooden dome made of two by two beams, plywood, and plexiglass windows. The dome is held together by one-fourth inch bolts and glue.

Exploring the vast region

Genetics, gram, humidity, cerebrum. By the time you are a 9th grader, you've probably heard all of these words. As a 7th or 8th grader you have perhaps only heard one or two of these words. Where have you heard them? In science class of course! These words are all scientific terms. WHAT?! You haven't heard these expressions? Well then, you'd better confront one of our intelligent science, biology, or health teachers, Mr. Handsome-ops! I mean Mr. Hanson Young, Mr. John Ankenbruck, Mr. Rodney Schwartz, Mrs. Arlyce Sterns, or Ms. Jessica Glendening.

Speaking of Ms. Glendening, did you know that her biology students—pull the purdy flowers an' things a-growin' round the stumps—an' they ud ketch the purdy butterflies, an' drass-hoppers, an' stick pins frough 'em???

reluctantly realize this is

Have you ever wondered about the problems of our society? If you have, the social problems class is right for you. They openly discuss everything from racial problems to drugs, with the direction of Mr. White. To learn to cope with these difficulties, the students composed original plays and performed them for the student body.

Several social studies classes, under the direction of Mr. Daniels, Mr. Graham, Mr. Mathias, and Mr. Schnelker, have been constructively cruising into the past. They have been indulging in such activities as writing newspapers of happenings 200 years ago, preparing a timecapsule, which they hope will be opened in 200 years, and participating in the Kekionga Bicentennial Committee of Correspondence. Students of Kekionga write to stateside students to learn about other bicentennial projects. According to Mr. Daniels, "They love it!"

the key to all success

Click, click, click, "Keep your eyes on the book." Clickety, click, click. "Get your speed up!" Click, click. What is it? Well if you ask a ninth grade typing student, you will probably get a response such as, "Oh, just an average day in (Mr. Smith's or Mr. Mathias') typing class." Time writings, setting up tables, reports, and letters are now routine activities to many ninth graders. Typing is a skill that will prove to be beneficial again and again, but remember, "practive makrs pefrect!"

If you choose to study art during the school year, you discover it is the way for creative people to express themselves. Miss Vickie Reed and Miss Sonja Strahm are the instructors of this inventive subject.

in the world today

"Get your bow out of my ear!" "Hey man, you just hit me in the head with your slide!" "Don't look now, but there's a drumstick flying toward you! Duck! . . . Too LATE!"

The bands this year have played a combination of classical and modern styles of music, varying from easy to moderately difficult pieces, depending on the age group.

The Nisbova solo contest was held in February for those members who wished to display their individual talents, and the competition for the whole band was held in March.

Orchestra is the combination of concert band and strings. They practice once a week to improve their skill. (?) Their everyday remarks are as follows: "Quit plucking those instruments!" "Mr. Myers I CAN'T play those notes!" Seriously though, orchestra is a rewarding experience.

Students shall supposedly

If you experience melodic tunes coming from room 219, it is probably one of Miss Jacquelyn Ault's choir classes. Miss Ault works long and tiring hours with her 7th, 8th, and 9th grade choirs to make their performances professional and well received.

Her general music class studies and experiments with instruments, while also learning about the history of music, composers, and musical events.

and talent with the help

"Oh no, what's the smell!"
"Oh my gosh it's burning!" This is just another typical day in Home Ec. class. From broken-down sewing machines to a burning towel in the oven. The future chefs and seamstresses are instructed by Miss Rathert and Mrs. Coplen.

Wear your goggles ... Who blew out the pilot lights ... Somebody light the lights ... No DON'T light the-BOOM ... Quit sanding your fingernails ... Alright, who broke the bandsaw ... Some tools are missing ... I've got a headache. These are some of the familiar sound effects that you will hear in Mr. Wolford's general shop classes.

of instructors and advisors

"Oh no, I can't do that!" "But I CAN'T take gym, I hurt my arm fighting with my brother!" When you hear these moans, groans, and excuses, you can almost bet where they're coming from . . . . the girls' P.E. class. The girls participate in seasonal sports and do some square dancing as well. They also use their skills while trying to achieve the Presidential Physical Fitness Award. All classes are taught by Mrs. Nancy Puente.

Boys gym is a good way to improve athletic proficiency. Boys this year learned and improved team sports such as basketball, football, and dodgeball. They also bettered themselves in teamwork, and good sportsmanship. Besides learning masculine sports, the guys did a little gymnastics as well. As the guys would say, "It was fun, and a great way to get in shape."

S P O R T S

The athletic teams of Kekionga shall extend their teamwork abilities to conquer all opposing forces. Striving for athletic perfection, they shall endure long hours of practice in perfecting their skills.

Football teams shall win

except in the case of "de-feet."

Under the direction of Mr. White, the varsity football team experienced victory and defeat, but never abandoned hope. The annual Football Jamboree at Wayne's Stadium was cancelled, so the season was kicked off by tangling forces with Ben Geyer, and the next five games fell in line subsequently. The guys failed to win the majority of their games, posting a 2-4 record.

Mr. John Ankenbruck coached the 8th grade football team this year. Besides the hard workouts, the guys put out great effort. Coach Ankenbruck often made this comment about the team: "Very good defensively, but lacked the potent offense, which is what every great team needs."

The small, but tough 7th grade football team showed great talent by being undefeated this season. Under the supervision of Mr. Terry Edwards, the squad demonstrated determination and winning tactics. Fairfield was the only team capable of scoring points against our newly-made Warriors, with a final score of 22-6.

Cross-country shall have runs

Volleyball shall do bumps

"Got it!" "Set it up, you guys!" "Spike it!" "Ouch, that's my nose, not the ball!" These are only a few of the many phrases you hear during the practices of the 9th grade girls' volleyball team. With Miss Glendening's fine coaching abilities, the girls learned and enjoyed new skills in the field of volleyball.

An all-out effort was put forth by the cross country team during this season, with the end result being a sixth place finish by the varsity team, and a seventh place finish by the reserve team in the city meet. Coach Smith has been a real inspiration with his help to the guys this year.

Wrestlers shall "get-down"

Although hampered by inadequate facilities which tended to diminish the number of participating wrestlers, a good record was wracked up mid-way through the season by Jeff Loucks, 4-0; Bill Freygang, 3-0; and Greg Cary, 3-1. Coach Schnelker has shown appreciation for all the wrestlers through the guidance, participation, and time he has given them.

Kekionga

Last year as reserve netmen they clinched the title of city champs. Now they are the varsity crew and are striving to retain their much coveted title. Even with only one loss during the regular season, the skilled shooters have their moments of terror, but always seem to overthrow the opponents. But tragedy struck in the first game of tournament when Blackhawk overcame them by only one point, 64-65.

White's ability for coaching basketball has been brought forth through the excellence of the eighth grade basketball team.

With the guidance of Coach John Ankenbruek, our seventh grade basketball team proved their great sportsmanship this season. The squad had a 2-2 record for the year. The team showed great determination and group spirit.

Pom-pom shall "boost" spirit

If you attended any varsity basketball games, at halftime you probably saw ten girls shaking their pom-poms to the beat of "That's the Way I Like It", or "Shakin' Baby". In case you didn't know, they are the Kekionga pom-pom squad. The girls help add some spark to the already fiery basketball games.

Cheerleaders shall "up" teams

When it comes to elevating school spirits, who can you count on to do a good job of it? That's right. Believe it or not, the cheerleaders. These girls presented and taught chants and cheers to the booster club. There's also a lot more to it than just that. They planned pep sessions, wrote the players notes of encouragement before the games, and put in many hours of hard work. They tolerated the good and bad times the teams went through, but never lost pep, pride, or confidence.

A C T I V I T I E S

When in the course of student events, it becomes necessary for students to obtain additional recreation, the school shall provide such activities.

They shall have government

Confucius say, "He who plays ancient Chinese art of ping-pong is ding-dong." That's not true according to members of the ping-pong club and their sponsors, Mr. Smith and Mr. Schnelker. They enjoy pinging (or is that ponging?) around on Thursday nights after school.

Order in the court! The jolly jesters will now straighten their tory wigs and try to assume an aire of dignity: "I think we ought to have open classrooms you know, no walls, no buildings . . ." "Why don't we have a dance . . . everyday . . . lasting, ohhh about 6 periods or so." As unorganized as they sound the student council produced other things beside laughter (sponsor Mr. Swinford made sure of that), such as dances and weird days. Their events kept students wiggling (especially during dances) and giggling. As they flipped their wigs and lost their dignity, the meeting was . . . adjourned!

mixed with entertaining activities

"Embrasse-moi, Je parle Francais." If you are told this by someone, that person must either be in French club or just want a big kiss! The French club, sponsored by Miss Bell, had many interesting activities, such as caroling and a petite dejeuner, which is a small lunch.

There are about 46 girls whose projects help our community and school. This service organization is the Y-Teens club, which is nationwide and a branch of the YWCA. The Y-Teeners always bring joy into the hearts of the young and old alike, with visits to the Health and Day Care Centers.

Draftsmen and artists shall create

"I don't care if you are Michealangelo, you can't paint the ceiling!" Every Thursday night after school, Miss Reed gets together with a few creative students to form our art club. After they have materialized their thoughts in sculptures, silk screenings, paintings, etc., Miss Reed checks around the room and says to some of the imaginative students, "I know this will hurt your creativity, but 'What is it?'"

Mr. Mars Wolford, the red planet, orbits around the room to teach his down-to earth class of draftsmen, architects, and Martians the skills and effects of their possible career in industrial arts. Each week they meet to discuss and finish the projects they have been working on throughout the semester.

Drama shall be "Lights, Action".

Lights! Camera! Action! As the curtain rises, we view the weird, whimsy group of so-called "actors" and "actresses" of the drama club, which is sponsored by Mr. Edwards. They put on many plays such as "Sorry, Wrong Number", "Fear!" and "Death Cell". These plays, along with others, were enjoyed tremendously by the student body. The drama club has done a great job and we hope they all break a leg (or maybe two!).

You shall "Step into the Sunshine"

with the Sunshine Singers

"Smile!" No it's not Candid Camera, it's Miss Ault and the Sunshine Singers. These girls spread sunshine wherever they went in their bright yellow overalls and with beautifully harmonized voices! (Hey! you're in the wrong key!) DO-RE-MI-CRACK!! (oops).

Miss Ault and the Sunshine Singers performed many programs this year. Their first engagement was at Southtown Mall, then the Turtle Creek Home, school Christmas program, and the Fort Wayne Women's Club. On March 15 and 16, the 7th, 8th, and 9th grade choirs joined with the Singers to present a bicentennial production. And that's not all! Boy, were they busy!

Money, moves, movies, and

One cent, two cents, three cents. It makes a lot of sense to be in banking. Determination is needed for saving the money that could be used towards some of the things wanted now. Mr. Mathias, sponsor, states that "saving money is important for future use."

Jump! Jump! Jump! Sound like a bunch of bunnies, doesn't it? Well, sort of. Mr. Young and Mr. Drabenstott raised this bunch of bunnies all year to strengthen their ability to master these games of skill. Each Tuesday this bad bunch meets to test their skills and wits by playing the two instructors.

multiplication makes members merry

The games people play are usually Nim and Tac Tickle for members of the math club. These "whiz kids" study the mathematical strategy of winning plus different areas of mathematics not taught in junior high. (Hmm—wonder if they're any good at doing algebra assignments?)

Mr. Graham, the sponsor of A.V. club, has worked all year to teach half these professionals (the other half are photo fiends) how to operate the audio-visual equipment. Each week he introduces new machines for the students to break trying to learn how to run them. Our school is furnished with enough Audio-visualists to run all the equipment throughout the year.

Long hours of rehearsals shall go

Impossible! Perhaps for most people. Ridiculous! True, if no one wants to work, and work HARD! But take one enthusiastic director, countless students, and willing co-workers; mix thoroughly with 200 years of American history, pages of script, and scores of music; beat in lots of hard hours of rehearsals, and then look for costumes; continue working until certain that all is ready. The result is always certain: one FANTASTIC bicentennial show "THIS IS MY COUNTRY." Yes, a year never to be repeated, an experience unique in itself.

into successful bicentennial show

Both clubs shall reflect history

Afro-American club consists of a group of black students interested in American Black History and their sponsors Mrs. Lavender, Mrs. Yates, and Mrs. Lynch. The members of the club participate in Black History week, reports, skits, dances, and parties.

The library never has a dull moment with its expert bookworms chewing through the pages of time. This year's club shelved books, arranged bulletin boards, put together THEM packages, and rid themselves of their frustrations by writing overdue notices.
